The History of St. Peter Church

“Thou Art Peter and Upon this Rock I Will Build My Church”

Editor's Note: Part 3 of the History of St. Peter Church appeared in the last newsletter and covered the years from 1938 to 1959.

With the death of the Rev John Rhein in 1938, the Rev. George Martin was brought in to serve as the temporary pastor for the church. During that year, the parish celebrated its first May Crowning. Children and parents gathered together to sing hymns and honor Mary as our blessed Mother, much like we still do today. In the summer of 1939 a large parish event was held with the dedication of a monument in Rhein's honor. Martin celebrated Holy Mass and then led the parishioners in a procession to the cemetery where the 7-foot stone cross had been placed in memory of their beloved pastor.

In 1941 the archbishop of the diocese instituted what was considered to be unpopular changes in the parish, reassigning both Martin and the associate pastor to new parishes. Despite the requests of the parishioners not to transfer the two priests, both were given new assignments. The Rev. Francis Brucker was installed as the new pastor of St. Peter's parish on July 20, 1941. A lavish installation ceremony was held, followed by a dinner with more than 100 people in attendance. During his address to the attendees, Brucker made it known that his main function was to be in the service of the parishioners.

Not long after his installation, the United States became involved in WWII and Brucker offered use of the parish facilities as well as the sewing talents of the women of the church to the Red Cross. Brucker also held a strong belief in the importance of a Catholic education. He firmly believed that this kind of education was vital in the development of a strong character, courage and peace of mind. His active involvement with the school children during this time conveyed those beliefs. In 1946 Brucker celebrated his silver jubilee which was attended by many community members including the Dean of Lorain County. The beginning of the school year in September of 1949 saw more than 200 students enrolled at St. Peter's. Brucker became ill in 1953 and immediately retired from the parish. Because his departure was so sudden, the parishioners did not have the opportunity to say good bye to him. Together they raised more than $1,000 and sent it to the hospital where he was being cared for.

During the next few years leadership at the church was passed on to several individuals. The Rev. John Koch began his assignment in 1953, but left shortly after due to ill health. A car accident claimed the life of his successor, the Rev. Charles Bechler in 1955. The Rev. Joseph Eiringer became pastor in October of that same year and introduced the idea of reviving bingo to a few of the parishioners. The weekly games became a much-needed means toward financial and spiritual growth within the parish. New desks were purchased for the students along with swings and other items for the playground.

By 1959 Eiringer was replaced by Msgr. Edward Halloran.

Fr. Bob's Corner

Dear Parishioners,

As we enter December, I think of the Andy Williams classic, “It's the most wonderful time of the year...” For some people, it is the most wonderful time of the year. Other people find it the most hectic time of the year. Still others find it the most trying time of the year. And some of us find it wonderful, hectic and trying all at the same time!

I find the Christmas season a hectic time because I (like many others) try to cram shopping, greeting cards and social events into an already full schedule. The Christmas season can be trying because many people more deeply feel the loss of their loved ones. However, in the midst of the busyness and at times, sadness of this season, I want to highlight the wonder of this special time of the year.

Simply put, what makes this time of year wonderful is the person of Jesus. Though we may be tempted to sentimentalize the birth of Jesus, we really celebrate God's rescue plan for the human race. The God who created everything out of nothing, took to Himself human flesh in the womb of the Blessed Virgin Mary. The Infinite One became finite, the Hidden One became visible, the Immortal One became mortal. And the only motivation for this act of humility by God was love.

The Church seeks to prepare us for this celebration by the season

Fr. Bob's Corner

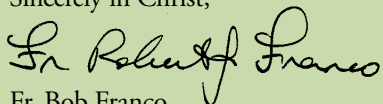

of Advent. During the weeks prior to Christmas the Church invites us to prepare the way of the Lord. We prepare for His coming by: reflecting on His Second Coming on the last day (First Week of Advent) preparing the way of the Lord by heeding John the Baptist (Second and Third Sundays) honoring the Blessed Virgin (Fourth Week of Advent)

St. Peter Parish will celebrate Advent a number of ways. All parishioners are invited to participate in our Advent Prayer Breakfast on Sunday, Dec. 12. Individuals and families sign up earlier in December to become anonymous prayer partners for other individuals or families. These people pray for each other during Advent and then discover their prayer partners at the Prayer Breakfast. Our high school youth will be cooking a meal and bringing it to the Joseph Overnight Shelter on Dec. 19. They will tour the facility after dropping off the meal and return to St. Peter's for pizza. Our junior high school group will be active on Dec. 19 as they go to the Northridge Nursing Home to do some Christmas caroling. Finally, the men of St. Peter Parish will be hosting the Men's Prayer Breakfast (the men's group from both St. Peter and St. Julie parishes) on Saturday, Dec. 18 at 8:30 a.m.

Our season of Advent culminates with the celebration of Christmas and the beginning of the Christmas season. The word "Christmas" is the product of two very familiar words: Christ and mass. I look forward to seeing you at the celebration of the Eucharist during these holy seasons as we celebrate the God who comes to us in Jesus Christ, the Word made Flesh, He who feeds us with His very Body and Blood.

Whether you find this time of year wonderful, hectic or trying, let us all keep our eyes on Jesus. Though it may be trite, it is true: Jesus the reason for the season.

Sincerely in Christ,

Fr. Bob Franco
Pastor, St. Peter Parish

"Need, not creed, determines who is helped."

The Vincentians of Saint Peter Parish (formerly called The St. Vincent dePaul Society) is a Catholic lay organization of men and women that helps the poor and those with temporary needs. It is a person-to-person Christian Ministry that sees the face of Christ in the faces of those who are suffering. Their outreach helps families with food, clothing, furniture, utility bills, prescription drugs and other needs. The food, furniture, and funds are donated by the parishioners for this cause.

Three major programs are held each year. The Back to School program is held during the months of July and August, Blanket Sunday is the second Sunday in October and The Giving Tree program runs concurrent with Advent. The Giving Tree benefits seven organizations; Community Care, Genesis House, Birthright of Lorain County, Lucy Idol Center, Blessing House along with Center Ridge Nursing Home and Northridge Health Center. In addition, dinner is held to benefit St. Joseph's Shelter in Lorain.

Meetings are held on the first Tuesday of the month and begin with praying the Rosary after benediction in church, followed by the regular meeting in the Parish Center. The opening meeting in September is held at the Fathers of St. Joseph on Case Road where dinner is served in fellowship with the priests, followed by a short meeting and Mass. The closing meeting is in June and again is held at the Fathers of St. Joseph with the meeting preceded by Mass. The formal part of the meeting lasts approximately one hour. A meeting of friendship is held once a year, generally in April or May, as members and their spouses come together to enjoy dinner at a local restaurant.

The Mission Statement of the Society is: No work of charity is foreign to the Society. "Need, not creed, determines who is helped."

New members are welcome to join. Contact Vincentian Coordinator, Casey Ciesielczyk, at the Parish Center if you feel you can provide a service to this ministry. If you're experiencing hardship and would like to get in touch with someone from this ministry, please contact the parish secretary.

Beatitudes for Friends of the Aged

Blessed are they that understand
My faltering step and my palsied hand.

Blessed are they that know my ears today,
Must strain to catch the things they say.

Blessed are they who seem to know
That my eyes are dim and my wits are slow.

Blessed are they that look away
When the coffee spilled at the table today,

Blessed are they with a cheery smile
Who stop to chat for a little while.

Blessed are they who never say
"You've told that story twice today."

Blessed are they who find the way
To bring back memories of yesterday.

Blessed are they who make it known
That I'm loved and not alone.

Blessed are they who ease the days
On my journey home in loving ways.

New faces greet students at St. Peter School

In the fall issue, three new teachers at St. Peter School were introduced briefly. Now that the (chalk) dust of a new school year has settled let's get to know them a little better.

Marilyn Verbus is a junior high instructor. A Cleveland area native, she has a degree in education from Ohio University. Her husband has an MBA in engineering and works for Analex, a division of NASA. They have a daughter who is a third year bio-chem major at the University of Chicago and a son who is in his second year of graduate school at Brown University, as well as two cats.

Verbus taught high school before her children were born, then was a stay-at-home mom until her son started school, and then became a substitute teacher. Both her children attended St. Peter School.

"I love St. Peter's—absolutely love what they do with kids," she said. "The kids come out with a sense of confidence, due to the embracing of the child that I see here."

Reading and using her G-phone are two of her hobbies because, she said, "It's fun to find out things you don't know. Then you have a chance to investigate them."

Debby Sisson teaches third grade. She grew up in Parma, attended St. Charles School and Baldwin-Wallace College. The Sissons are members of St. Peter Parish.

Her husband belongs to the Knights of Columbus and her sons are in first grade and preschool.

Sisson taught second and third grade at St. Charles School before going on maternity leave when her eldest son was born. She then worked part-time at night so she could stay home with her sons. It was "a rough schedule," she said, because she and her husband didn't have much family time together. She was very excited to be hired by St. Peter School. "Working with the kids is the best part of my job... seeing their faces when they grasp an idea and knowing that I helped make that happen."

Her hobbies include swimming and exercising, "any type of family activities." She hopes to eventually earn a master's degree in special education.

The school's new preschool teacher is Stacie Schwark.

She was raised in Wickliffe, and graduated from Cleveland State University with a degree in early childhood education. Her husband is a pastoral associate and director of religious education at St. Bridget Parish in Parma Heights.

She began her teaching career as an education aide, then taught first grade at a charter school in Maple Heights. She was employed as a third grade instructor at Sts. Cyril and Methodius until the school closed in June of this year. Teaching at the preschool level is very rewarding for Schwark. "To see the kids' excitement at coming to school, and to watch them grow throughout the year, is what I like most about this position."

An accomplished bowler, Schwark competed nationally in high school tournaments and was awarded college scholarships. She also enjoys playing softball and reading. She plans to return to CSU for a master's degree in curriculum and instruction.

Have fun and raise funds

Where will you be on March 19, 2011 at 6 p.m.?

PTU members hope you join them for the event, Raise Your Paddle For Computers, at Wagner's Country Inn in Westlake to raise money to replace computers and update software in the school's computer lab.

The evening will begin with a pasta buffet, featuring hot and cold appetizers, sliced chicken, salads, desserts and beer, wine and non-alcoholic drinks. Entertainment and dancing will be provided by Troy Entertainment. Auctions by Wolf will conduct a live auction, and there will also be a silent auction, tuition, 50/50 and basket raffles and door prizes.

Donations for the auction and basket raffles would be appreciated. Sponsorships, ranging from $50 to $400, are also available. Tickets for the tuition raffle are $25 and will go on sale in January. The 50/50 raffle tickets are $5 each or five for $20 and are currently available. Winners of the tuition and 50/50 raffles need not be present. Cash donations are gratefully accepted.

Dinner tickets are $55 each or two for $100 and are only sold in advance. No tickets will be sold the night of the event. Please contact Noreen DeLuca at raiseyourpaddle2011@yahoo.com to donate goods or cash, to become a sponsor or to purchase dinner or raffle tickets by cash or check. Credit card purchases of dinner tickets can be made at www.raiseyourpaddleforcomputers.myevent.com.

Forty years after being hired; business manager retires

Sharon Cameron's office is tucked way back in the Parish Center – down one hall and then another. It's not very big and not at all fancy, but the job she does there is huge. Since August, 1970, when Cameron was hired by the Rev. Nicholas Novosel, she has been involved in the facts and figures of St. Peter's finances. Today, she is the business manager for the parish.

Initially Cameron worked just one day a month, but when the Rev. Lliam Kitt became pastor, it increased to one day a week, which is what she did for most of her career, until 2003 when then-pastor, the Rev. Stephen Kaminski hired her as business manager.

Her earlier schedule allowed her to work part-time at other parishes, including 26 years at St. Mary's in Elyria and 16 at Holy Spirit. A single mother of four, Cameron also worked at Sacred Heart Parish in Elyria as well as Assumption in Grafton and she continues to maintain records at Guardian Angels Parish in Copley one Saturday a month.

"At one time I had seven parishes, but I did not work on Sundays," she said, adding, "You do what you have to do."

As pastors changed over the years, Cameron kept a running tab on the number, noting, "I worked under 51 priests in 40 years."

Pulling out a large black ledger book, the business manager explained that different priests also had different ways of keeping records, but in the 1970s, the Cleveland Catholic Diocese began using standardized methods for accounting. Now, parish financial records are stored on computers and "Father can click on the balance," she said. Although some reports are 23 pages long, they are much more manageable on computers, she said, however, the old, handwritten books may not be destroyed.

Cameron lives in Elyria, but grew up on Root Road in North Ridgeville and said her career was an offshoot of high school accounting classes.

"I liked it," she said and eventually she took more training through the diocese from now-retired priest the Rev. Al Mackert, former pastor at Immaculate Conception. "He was a wonderful man," she said.

As she reminisced about her career in the world of finance, Cameron glanced at the calendar hanging near her desk, noting that her days at St. Peter's are numbered. She plans to retire at the end of the year, though she'll be back in January to help prepare W-2 forms for St. Peter's employees.

With her free time, Cameron will visit children and grandchildren, work in her garden, which will send it into "culture shock," she said. She'll also resume her hobby of decorative tole painting and continue to get together with a special group of women who all went to kindergarten together in the Old Town Hall.

Thoughts of retiring are bittersweet for Cameron who will miss not only the people she worked with, but the job itself. "I love doing this work," she said.

Time for grown-ups to have fun

Parish Moms and Dads, St. Peter's PTU wants you to have some fun!

The PTU is offering five special interest groups to give parents a chance to relax and socialize with each other. Groups are in the process of forming, so read on to find one that interests you.

Dad's Night Out meets once a month and members plan various activities, such as playing cards, attending a sporting event, inviting a speaker – anything that is of interest to the group.

Couples Supper Club will be held on a Saturday evenings, either once a month or every other month, at a member's home. Couples will take turns hosting the dinner, with the host couple choosing the menu theme (Mexican, BBQ, fondue, etc.) and supply the main dish, while guest couples bring appetizers, side dishes and desserts.

The Play Group is an excellent opportunity for moms and their children to meet other moms and kids. Activities, locations and times are decided by the Moms.

Do you enjoy scrapbooking and/or crafts? Then check out the Scrapbooking Craft Club. Open to both novices and veterans, members bring their own tools and supplies. Share your ideas or learn a new technique.

If curling up with a good book is your idea of fun, the Book Club is for you. Members choose a book and have a discussion once a month.

If you have an idea for a club not listed here, want to join a group, or need more information contact Laura Krese at kkrese@windstream.net. Don't let the fun pass you by!

Community Supper

Fall nights bring a hearty meal for all. Our brand new china makes supper a little more festive when shared with friends and community. The cooking, serving and clean-up goes quick when many hands help.

Parishioner among six ordained deacons

Six young men were ordained to the Sacred Order of Deacon, Oct. 23, including St. Peter parishioner, Chuck Butkowski. In approximately seven months, the men will be ordained priests. Four of the deacons will join Butkowski in serving the Diocese of Cleveland, while another was ordained for the Archdiocese of Daegu, South Korea.

The Rite of Ordination celebrated by Bishop Richard Lennon at the Cathedral of St. John the Evangelist, included the election of candidates, consent of the people, promise of the elect, laying on of hands, prayer of ordination and investiture.

The bishop told the congregation that they were witnessing a “very significant moment,” as the men before him had been called to serve God.

“Transitional deacons,” as they are called, play special roles in the church, Lennon said. Their voices proclaim the Catholic faith. They assist at Mass and in baptizing and also distribute Communion, among other things. In helping with the sacraments, the bishop said, “They are deepening their relationship with God.”

He reminded the men to maintain constancy in prayer – praying for the church and the world; their brothers and sisters and the people in their lives. Lennon also told them to be “constant witnesses of faith and love” and thanked them for responding to God’s call to the priesthood.

Prior to the Liturgy of the Eucharist, each of the newly-ordained deacons went before the bishop. As Lennon placed the Book of Gospels into each man’s hands he said, “Receive the Gospel of Christ whose herald you have become.

“Believe what you read,
“Teach what you believe,
“And practice what you teach.”

Good time was had by all

When the air turns crisp and bonfires light up, nothing beats hot dogs and hayrides for some fall fun.

Recently members of St. Peter’s Junior High Youth Group, including Christine Chase, Joey Stefanek, Noah Griffiths, Tyler Barhorst, Meghan Foster, Rob Frank, Ryan Turner and Mary Wojeiechowski, went to Spring Mist Farms in Brunswick to enjoy the season.

Bouncing along atop a hay wagon, everyone watched for wildlife and weren’t disappointed, as here and there they spotted some elk and alpacas. But there was more to the ride than sightseeing and before long hay was flying and the fight was on with some in the group ending up buried in the hay. But the boys and girls weren’t the only ones having a good time, even chaperones, Fr. Bob, Cheryl Koberna, Bob and Donna Frank and Regina Wojeiechowski, enjoyed the outing.

“I actually think we had just as much fun as they did,” Koberna said.

At the bonfire, they cooked hot dogs, listened to Fr. Bob play his guitar and sing and made s’mores, she said, but as all good things must come to an end, so did the fun and before long it was time to head home.

“Every one of us had to shake out our clothes before we went into our homes because our pockets, hoods and layers of clothes were full of hay,” Koberna said, adding, “I call that a memory-keeper when we continue to find stray strands of hay for days after. I automatically smile as I think of the smiles and laughter that I saw and heard from the kids that night.”

A Window into a Saint’s Life

Nativity of the Lord Jesus

The figures in this window scene include the baby Jesus being held by Mary, with St. Joseph on the left.

The other participants presumably could be Mary’s cousin Elizabeth, her husband Zechariah and their child, John, who would later be known as John the Baptist. Between Elizabeth and Zechariah there appears to be a lamb, probably another reference to Jesus.

The remaining background contains implements that quite possibly would be found in a stable – a pitchfork, shovel, and straw. Framing the top of the window is a star representing the visit from the Magi as described in Matthew 2:9-10: And behold, the star that they had seen at its rising preceded them, until it came and stopped over the place where the child was.

This window was a gift of Katharina Maringer.

Some Random Thoughts from Deacon Don

Well, by the time this goes to print, a couple of things will have transpired. First, I will have had my knee replacement surgery and, praise God, my recovery and rehab have gone very well, so far. Second, it will be three years since Pat and I first arrived on the scene at St. Pete's.

As far as my time off due to the surgery goes, I would really like to thank everyone from the St. Peter Parish community for all of your prayers, support and thoughtfulness. The many, many cards, calls, visits, magazines, puzzles and prayers have really helped to pass the time and speed my recovery. An extra special "thank you" also goes out from both of us to those who brought over some really great and yummy dinners and treats.

Pat and I feel very blessed to be a part of this parish community! The outpouring of acceptance, welcome and love from all of you has been a tremendous gift for us both and we look forward to spending many more happy years at St. Peter. They say that change is a hard thing to accept but all of you have made our change in the transition from St Vincent to St. Peter a very easy thing, indeed. It's often very hard and even scary to leave the security of familiar surroundings, friends and acquaintances, especially some you've known all your life, but it is equally exciting and refreshing to acclimate oneself to new surroundings and to meet and foster new relationships with the people in a new parish family.

A lot has happened in these past three years in the way of change at St. Peter, beginning with our arrival. We welcomed a new musician, Jim Akoury, waded through the clustering process, we saw Fr. Doug's arrival, Fr. Stephen's departure, Kevin Elbert's ordination, Sr. Sean's arrival, our new pastor, Fr. Bob's, arrival, Fr. Doug's departure and now our own parish son, Chuck Butkowski's, ordination to the transitional diaconate. Along with the arrival of many new individuals and families as parishioners while some others have moved on. And many old friends and family members have been called home to God but there have also been many new additions to some of the young families in the parish. Whew, so much in such a short time! Through all of the change, all of the comings and goings and all of the turmoil, one thing has remained constant; St. Peter Parish has endured and will continue to endure. Why? It's because of each and every one of you. A parish is not bricks and mortar it's not even in a name above the door. A parish, just like the Church itself, is made up of people, lots of people, forming a family unit within the Body of Christ. Families are blessed with the uncanny ability to weather the storms of loss and change that come our way and the parish family of St. Peter is no different. Yes, we have seen much change in three short years and we will see many more changes in years to come but one thing that will never change is the love of God that makes a place like St. Peter Parish possible. With the grace of God, Pat and I will continue and look forward to being a part of it.

With all the talk we hear on the news and out of Washington in regards to the amounts of money that the government is spending, i.e. millions, billions and trillions of dollars, perhaps this little factoid can help to put all of that talk into some perspective. As I add this final thought, it is Saturday morning, November 13. At this point in time, it was just about one million seconds ago – about 12 days – that our country held its 2010, mid-term elections. Do you have any idea what was happening one trillion seconds ago? I'll tell you. One trillion seconds ago the entire northern hemisphere of the earth was covered by glaciers – ice sheets more than a mile thick. Our human ancestors were living in caves and the very first people to settle what we now know as North and South America, Asians, were making their way to this continent across the Bering Sea in very crude boats. That would have been about thirty-three thousand years ago! So, think about that the next time you hear someone flippantly throw around the phrase, "a trillion dollars."

Stay well and God bless!

Deacon Don

Know Your Faith

Advent – Happy New Year!

When you hear the phrase, "Happy New Year" most people think of January 1st. The Liturgical New Year, however, begins with the first Sunday of Advent.

Advent is composed of the four Sundays prior to Christmas and during that season Christians reflect on the first coming of the Messiah while looking forward to the second coming. So, Advent is filled with anticipation and expectation of the coming of our Lord.

Advent originated with the early Church in France and was a time of prayer, penitence, and fasting much like Lent. Pope Gregory VII formalized and reduced the number of Sundays in Advent to four. It was in the 9th century that the Church made Advent the beginning of the Church year.

Advent comes from the Latin word adventus which means "coming." With any arrival, there is anticipation and preparation for what is to come. Congregations prepare their churches using purple – the color of royalty – which is fitting as we anticipate the birth of Christ the King. Another symbol, the Advent wreath, draws us in to the anticipation of the 'Light of the World' through the use of purple, pink and white candles. The circular Advent wreath represents God with no beginning or end. The purple candles signify hope, preparation, and anticipation while the pink candle represents joy. In some wreaths, white candles are used to represent Christ. The tradition of the Advent wreath was borrowed from German Lutherans around the 1500s.

St. Peter Parish hosts an Advent Prayer Breakfast. Prior to the beginning of Advent, individuals and families can register to receive the name of a person or persons for whom to pray for during the season of Advent. On the third Sunday of Advent, also called Gaudette Sunday, the participants join for breakfast to meet the person or persons who have been praying for them and those whom they have remembered in prayer. Over breakfast, the individuals and families share fellowship with other members of the parish. This year the Advent Breakfast is on Dec. 12, following the 10 a.m. Mass.
